STATUTES (§1-§3)

§ 1 Name and headquarters

- (1) The name of the company is:

Dr. Randoll Institut
Non-Profit Organization with limited liability for Matrix Research and Education

- (2) The company has its head office in Munich

§ 2 Purpose of the company

- (1) The company aims at integrating new insights from biological systems theory and basic cell-biological research into medical practice. Biological systems theory is the result of current research. It has initiated a kind of processed-oriented thinking in medicine, which in turn has opened the way to new diagnostic and therapeutic opportunities, based on video-microscopic research of living cells: Living processes are self-organized within their general conditions. If those conditions change, macroscopically observable symptoms develop, which hierarchically result from alterations of the extra-cellular matrix (space around each cell in the body). By influencing these basic conditions (cellular logistics) in a targeted fashion at the level of cell-biological regulations, symptoms can be relieved more gently than before and by addressing the root causes (paradigm shift in medicine).

The purpose of the company is to implement, disseminate and further optimize non-invasive, nature-conform methods of therapy, developed during earlier research, into various specialized disciplines for the benefit of patients, with quality management and quality assurance.

Thus, the task of the company is to promote and support research and teaching for prevention, rehabilitation, therapy and diagnostics in medical and other health-related fields. It will provide information on the insights which are gained in this process, for treatment of diseases, and on regenerative and preventive potentials for the maintenance of good health.

In particular, the purpose of the company will be realized by the following measures:

- Preparation of a curriculum based on the systemic Matrix Therapy Concept for further education of health practitioners (doctors, therapists, etc.) from different specializations (quality assurance).
- Continuation of research in cooperative networks with basic researchers, in order to develop further strategies for therapy in the context of the Matrix Concept.
- Realization and organization of national and international seminars, advanced training courses and workshops to communicate and discuss the insights gained by this company as well as contributions by others, for targeted dissemination of the Matrix Concept.
- Technical assistance and provision of equipment for support and standardization of planned research and documentation.
- Preparation and publication of these insights through scientific journals, participation in conferences and other channels of communication.
- Exchange of experience among health practitioners who are applying the process-oriented thinking of the Matrix Concept in the general health system.

§ 3 Non-profit status
